How This Actually Works – repeats itself

2. Free – plan is called community access

3. Desensitization – its spelt desensitisation in uk English
4. When you first login – pop up with welcome to emdr and then a walkthrough of where to start etc
5. I want this first page when you log in to be called My Space and use one of the images I made for my space
6. Create your roadmap page – I don't like the grey background. Change AI help to Chat to virtual assistant "Sigmund" and change pictures to something like Sigmund and the therapist ones from indesk. Visualise and questionnaires spelt wrong.
7. Book consultation button should say: Book now. Sigmond button should say Start now
8. The text for book consultation should say – Book a 60 minute consultation (Price not included in your plan) with one of our EMDR trained clinical psychologists. Text for Sigmond is – With the help of Sigmund and his psychological assessment questions you can begin to create your EMDR roadmap.
9. Once you press sTARt now – a video pops up – add some introductory text. Please watch this video to help understand about emdr.

How EMDR Works

EMDR stands for Eye Movement Desensitisation and Reprocessing. It's a therapy designed to help your brain process memories, thoughts or future worries that have become "stuck" ones that stay vivid and emotionally charged long after the event itself has passed.

In EMDR, you hold a troubling memory lightly in mind while following a rhythmic back-and-forth stimulus, like eye movements, taps, or sounds. Gradually, the memory loses its emotional charge. You'll still know what happened, but it starts to feel like something in the past, rather than something still happening now.

This programme is designed to be worked through at your own pace. If something feels like too much, it's fine to slow down, repeat a session, or sit with earlier material before moving on. There's no timeline to stick to.

After some sessions you might feel emotionally drained or a little flat, this is a normal part of the process and usually passes within a day or two.

The early sessions focus on building skills and stability before you approach any difficult memories. That preparation isn't filler; it's what makes the processing work safely.

One important note: this programme is suited to mild to moderate difficulties. If you find yourself significantly distressed in your day-to-day life, we'd encourage you to speak with a mental health professional rather than working through this alone.

Session 1:

Session 1: Introduction to EMDR

- Video introduction (Video 1 again) – the video audio is quiet, also no line to move it along, go back etc etc
- How EMDR works explanation (short text)
- Setting expectations (text)
- LINK TO Optional Questionnaires: Specific questionnaires for specific problems – add into my space dashboard which will be recorded weekly and made into nice graphs that get updated with every questionnaire. Here will include original phq, gad etc questionnaire results too.

- Button for Session 2 (save progress in myspace) – these not there

10. I accidentally pressed play again and was forced to watch it again!

11. Don't need the feedback at the side of video – take it away

12. Needs some explanation here when starting:

About You

Before the processing work begins, we'd like to build up a picture of you; where you've come from, how you tend to think and feel, and what life has been like up until now.

This is called a formulation. Think of it as a map that helps make sense of why certain experiences affect you the way they do and that this is connected to the research. You'll be asked about things like early memories, beliefs you hold about yourself, and how you tend to respond when things get difficult.

Take your time with it, and don't worry about getting it "right." Honest and approximate is more useful than precise and uncomfortable. The information you fill in here will be used throughout the programme to tailor the work to you. We will start with the here and now.

ORDER OF QUESTIONS:

1. Situation
2. Thoughts
3. Feelings
4. Behaviours
5. Consequences
6. When I was little
7. Deep down beliefs (Hot Buttons)
8. The rules
9. The trigger

13. After the trigger it just goes blank and I have to scroll up to find thoughts – its missing situation here.

14. I want it to be Situation (Left hand side at top) Then in a circle – thoughts-feelings-behaviours-consequences

15. When you complete journey I want it all to show up on one page. User can then review it and see how it all links together

16. Choose better images for calm place and background of it.

17. This whole page (calm place is weird). There is the calm place audio missing – listen to that (on drive) and rethink.

18. This page isn't looking great. Alos make the emdr companion – Sigmond.

Meet Your EMDR Companion

I'm here to gently guide you through preparing for your first EMDR session. We'll work together at your pace.

Click on the option that feels most present for you:

Memory/Past Event

"Something that happened"

- The assault
- Car accident
- Being bullied

Future Scenario

"What if..." fears

- Contaminating others
- Failing & losing job
- Being judged

Words/Thoughts

"Loops in my head"

- "Is this the right person?"
- "What if I hurt someone?"
- "Did I lock the door?"

Difficult Emotions

"I just feel..."

- Frozen/numb
- Random panic
- Overwhelming shame

Addiction/Craving

"Pleasurable but problematic"

- Alcohol/drug high
- Shopping rush
- Gaming excitement

Tip: Choose the one that feels strongest or most present right now

16. This next page also looks very dull. Can we have it read out by male AI voice if possible?

I'm here to gently guide you through preparing for your first EMDR session. We'll work together at your pace.

EMDR Companion: I'm here to gently guide you through preparing for your first EMDR session. We'll work together at your pace.

EMDR Companion: Where would you like to start? Do you have a clear memory of an event? An image of a future worst-case scenario? Words running around in your mind? Or is there an overriding emotion without much thought?

You: Future Scenario

EMDR Companion: Can you describe the future scenario or worst-case situation you're imagining? (e.g., I will catch a virus and infect my family, the house will burn down because I left something on, I will have a panic attack in public, I'll fail the exam and lose everything, my partner will leave me)

17. All pages in this look terrible. Select the negative belief(s) that resonate with you:

Change to “Choose what this situation meant or means to you negatively”. It isn’t necessarily what you thought or think in the moment.

17. Im still not happy with the bilateral stimulation objects that go back and forth. They don’t look good and there are not enough to choose from. The BACKGROUND images – some are really odd choices. The back and forth across the screen is not fast enough and the sounds are for the questions later – not the right sounds from the drive. Poor work come on guys – this is the MAIN part of the program. Put some effort into the design and understanding. I have sent over the website of others that are doing it many times.

19. When I paused and restarted it it just continued forever.

20. None of what I have asked for -the process of checking in and starting the bilateral stimulation is there

I have reviewed up to here – I will review the rest later.
